Oru Chair

by Patricia Urquiola

The Oru collection is strongly influenced by the design of the 70's and is also inspired by a certain Japanese feeling and mood. A vigorous, iconic and bold design in which the striking architecture of the three legs is reminiscent of the shape of an oar, and is the result of precise wood craftsmanship.

What stands out are the joints between the wooden pieces and the upholstered parts, which have a natural and harmonious finish, making Oru a unique design that represents an innovative and personal vision of the seating concept. Innovation lies in sustainability. The upholstery is made of recycled fabric and the internal foam is also made of recycled fibers, combining craftsmanship with industrial technology.

ANDREU WORLD

The Oru collection consists of chairs and armchairs, with two width options, stools in two heights and a lounge chair version. Its solid construction system is based on a structure of three ash wood legs, which provides maximum resistance in the most demanding uses. The seat is always upholstered and in the case of the chair, armchair and stools, the backrest is in solid wood, with the option of an upholstered backrest, while in the lounge chair the backrest is always upholstered. Its ergonomic design offers optimum body support, and its seat provides a high level of comfort thanks to the combination of foam and elastic webbing bands.
